FROM: Bruce T. Johnson
Director of Data Processing

SUBJECT: ODP Long-Range Plan for 1981-1987

In the quiet of Sunday afternoon I had the opportunity to read through the new Long-Range Plan and I must say I am very pleased with the product. I know that there have been some developments which have called into question some of the specific computer moves which had originally been identified, but given the dynamic nature of ODP, it will always be difficult to avoid this sort of thing. It should not divert our attention from the observable fact that this year's Plan builds upon and is a marked improvement over previous such efforts. The text is clear and literate, and the contents are more comprehensive than ever before. I think it is a document that we can all be proud of and one which represents this office very well indeed. My thanks to all who contributed, and most especially to for his key role.
